PROGRAM INFORMATION

Civil War

"Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure." — Abraham Lincoln, Gettysburg, November 19, 1863.

Experience a sojourn in America's past, exploring the conflict that divided state from state and brother from brother. The skilled staff of Civil War living historians, help your students and family imagine the contours of Civil War life in a way that motivates ongoing study.

Start the day off with a rousing town meeting in which your group must debate the war then decide whether to secede, join the union or stay neutral. All sides will get a chance to argue their point, as you relive the Maryland State Assembly.

After voting in the Assembly, spend time with Confederate and Union soldiers as they teach you about their home states and the issues they face. The Civil War comes to life as you experience activities such as a regiment drill, a visit to the Surgeon's infirmary, and perhaps a lesson in 19th century etiquette, along with various other posts.

Once finished with all your camp posts, you will be given a soldier's ration of lemonade, cornbread, cheese, an apple and dried beef.

And finally at the end of the day, all your students participate in a large mock battle, reenacting the Battle of Malvern Hill . Fight for your home and land as a Southerners, or uphold the Union and fight to keep the country together as a Northerner. Given the muskets they are drilled with, all students will be lead into battle by one of our commanding officers.
